TUESDAY MORNING, AUG 25, 186

The Avowed Policy of the Leaders of the Democracy.

In the dispatches published yesterday, it was announced that the National Democratic Committee would meet in New York on the 7th day of September to fix the time and place for holding a National Convention, and for other purposes This movement of course has reference to the Presidential campaign, and is the beginning of measures of organized opposition to the Administration and its policy. Whether it can be made to embrace any of the old members of the Democratic party who at present stand faithfully by the Government in its efforts to crush the rebellion is very doubtful and we feel assured it will not, if those who manage it have the honesty to avow their real purposes Doubtless they are in full sympathy with Vallandigham and his programme is stated as follows, by one of his political associates who met him recently in Canada If the Democratic party adopt it and unite and labor earnestly for its success a weighty responsibility will rest upon all loyal and patriotic men without regard to political prejudices heretofore, to save the country from the disgrace and ruin which such doctrines if triumphant, would cause Vallandigham's policy, as stated by himself, read thus —

The war will be ended when the Democratic party comes into power, which will be in 1865 and not till then The independence of the Southern Confederacy will then be acknowledged with the understanding that a National Convention shall immediately be called to purpose of reconstruction At that Convention new guarantees shall be given to the South, by constitutional amendments—such as the acknowledgment of the nationality of slavery, the right of slaveholders to carry their slaves wherever they please, under the protection of the Federal Government, the restoration of slavery where it has been abolished by the emancipation proclamation, a general amnesty and restoration to rights of all rebels—leaders and all in fact all that the slaveholders ever claimed in their most arrogant moments, and more too is to be readily and cordially conceded with such a disposition of the Abolitionists as the mercy of the rebels may suggest This is about the programme which is now being prepared to govern the future action of the great Democratic party, and depend upon it, it will have the support of that time honored party there is no mistake about this True, the veteran apostles of that faith those whose personal character and intellects added luster to the name, are not with them—Dickinson, Butler Dix Cass Brough, Tod Wright of Indiana, Wright of Pennsylvania, Andy Johnson, Holt, Guthrie, Burnside, Rosecrans, and hundreds of others, but it will, nevertheless have the sympathies and active support of a large majority of the once proud and dominant Democratic party, and will be made the test of political faith in the coming national contest Upon this platform it will have to be met and conquered

Bold Robbery—On Tuesday last, Mr — Loveland, a miner from Colville, while coming down from that place, was overtaken at Dry Creek—only six miles from this city —by three men, one of whom accosted him familiarly and asked him if he was from Colville Upon obtaining an affirmative answer, they drew their revolvers and immediately commenced shooting at him The first shot they killed his horse He drew his revolver and shot one of them who fell forward exclaiming "I am killed!" He fired at another of them who threw his hand up to his side indicating that he was shot also, but he did not fall In the meantime, Mr Loveland received a shot in one of his legs and another in one of his arms as he threw it up to fend off a pistol aimed at his head At this stage a cap became fastened in his revolver, and it ceased to revolve when a ball from a pistol in the hand of one of the assassins grazed his head and together with the shock from the pistol which was held close to his head, stunned him so that he fell The two remaining robbers, thinking they had killed him at once possessed themselves of his cantinas—containing between fourteen and fifteen hundred dollars in gold dust— and picking up their fallen companion, one of them took him on before him, and leading his horse, they rode off toward the mountains After the robbers had departed, Mr Loveland walked to a house on Dry Creek only a mile distant where his wounds were dressed He has since come into town and is doing well He came down from Colville to buy cattle and brought with him a couple of Indians, who it is supposed communicated the fact that he had money with him to the Indians at the mouth of the Pelouse, where it is believed a band of thieves have their rendezvous and from whence they most likely followed him The robbery occurred about the middle of the day Sheriff Gilham has been making active efforts to catch the thieves but as yet has obtained no clue to their whereabouts —Walla Walla States man

A Good Answer — Gen McClellan was called on by Gov Seymour so report says to address the New York rioters, and beseech them to behave McClellan replied "If I go up to the people as you call them, it will not be with a [illegible] but with grape and canister" The General then withdrew in good order, leaving the Governor much chagrined that the General was not willing to adopt tactics similar to his own and to "speak to the people"

In Jail —Van Fichter the man who is charged with killing McDaniels at Canyon City arrived at the Dalles yesterday in custody of the Deputy Sheriff and is now confined in the county jail It is understood that an application will be made to the District Judge for a hearing with a view to admitting the accused to bail —Mountaineer

Gen U S Grant

We cannot publish to-day anything which will be more interesting to those of our readers who once knew the present hero of the Mississippi as a resident of Oregon, or to patriots generally than the following eminently just remarks in relation to the services and military exploits of one who has as it were by a single leap, mounted to the position of the leading soldiers of the world — They are part of the correspondence of the Bulletin, and though long, are well worthy the perusal of all who desire to give just praise to honest merit The writer commences by an allusion "to the highly important victory—the capture of Port Hudson and its garrison and guns by the Yankee mechanic —Maj Gen Nat P Banks It is the last of the wonderful series of triumphs that have illustrated our arms on the Mississippi river From Cairo to New Orleans the river is now ours From Lake Itasca to the Delta the river is open, and though howling guerrillas may for a while interrupt the progress of peaceful craft of commerce, it will only be for a short while—for the same power that has so utterly demolished the great armies and navies of the rebels will soon scent out and bring to justice every sneaking traitor who may think to hide his head and carry on his depredations among the canebrakes and bayous of the lower Mississippi Twenty months ago at Belmont the great work was begun by an unknown officer called Grant, twenty days ago the great soldier, Major Gen Ulysses S Grant consummated the tremendous struggle by the capture of Vicksburg—having, in the meantime, as Gen Halleck lately remarked, fought 15 battles and won 15 victories.

In former letters, and before Gen. Grant's last and greatest success, I have uttered my heartfelt panegyrics of this hero of American soldiers this noblest souled American man Perhaps some of your readers then thought my encomiums too warm What do they say now?—What do the soldiers of Europe say? what but that Gen Grant deserves to rank among the half dozen great generals of the world? What does the West say? If there was such a thing in the West as the worship of Gods and heroes, Gen Grant would be apotheosized to day What will history say? Already the long roll of the present—already the cannon of Vicksburg throw their echoes down the corridors of time He is crowned forever "The Hero of the Mississippi Valley" Let not political quacks meddle with his man's fame! Above all, may he not be withdrawn from the scene of his exploits, from the army of his love, and placed at the head of that Army of the Potomac to be the foot ball of the flunkeys and snobs who rule in things military at Washington—to be badgered and abused, and thwarted and maligned, until, weary and crazed by his position, and maddened and broken by the misfortunes that necessarily spring from it he flings away his office, or has it snatched from him, only to add another to the long roll of officers who have been successively elevated and ruined by the command of the Army of the Potomac Other men claim his honors but no other man merits them It seems according to some, that it was a man sitting in an office at Washington who was the means of winning all Grant's victories — Strange, if he can win victories a thousand miles away on the Mississippi far beyond the reach of telegraph or rail, that he can win nothing but defeats on the Potomac, where the army fights under his nose According to others, it was a man—a deaf crabbed old man—who went out from Washington to Vicksburg, and showed Gen Grant how to do Strange, that this septegenarian who never fought a battle nor saw a siege in his life, who neglects and mismanages his own duties, should be able to step into the arena where one of the greatest campaigns of modern times was being fought, and show the well trained gladiator how and where to plant the blows According to others it is Grant's subordinate Generals to whom the victory is due? To which of them? To McClernand, whom he dismissed, to Sherman—the eternal blunderer, or to McPherson, who is but an engineer? Unquestionably Grant owed much of success to some of these and, to some other officers Nor would I deprecate one of them Sherman has a repute in the army of being a scientific soldier without a superior But I only chronicle a matter of history when I say that he never yet fought a battle or a skirmish beyond the immediate supervision of Gen Grant in which he did not fail McPherson has an army reputation as an engineer equal to Sherman's reputation as a field officer, but Vicksburg is the first siege during the war in which he has taken part, and though I doubt not—indeed I know—that he contributed his share to the triumph, yet it was only as part of a harmonious whole whose head was Gen Grant Though McClernand was dismissed for his failure to do his duty in the assault on the 22d of May his merits as a fighter are indisputable; and Gen Grant will freely award him the praise he deserves

Others say it was not Gen Grant, but his rank and file—the gallant soldiers of the West—who won the victory And so say I The heroic army—that dauntless army—that army to whom the longest and most harassing marches are easy matters, to whom the fiercest battles are but amusements grim but glorious, to which the most tedious sieges are made cheerful by their exhaustless animation The wreaths on the brow of that army shall be immortal, and their deeds shall live forever in the story of their native land But what if that army of ours had been led by—an ass? What if it had been led by the pedantic Gen A by the frowsy Gen B by the headstrong Gen C, by the harebrained Gen D by the celebrated Gen E, by the very able and unexceptionable but somehow always unfortunate Gen F?— The army was the victors and Gen Grant gave them victory It was Grant, whose sword marked the path to glory, and it was his army that followed that path fearlessly and undauntedly till the goal was won Mr Emerson of Concord says that it was not merely because the great Napoleon led the French army that its victories were won but because beside that, every man in his army was a little Napoleon So Gen Grant being a hero by nature and a soldier by instinct communicates some of his own qualities to his men while the heroic army reflects back upon him the great qualities of its character

But to return to that exhaustless theme—the campaign on the Mississippi and the opening of the river The great work was commenced by two armies and two navies, each of them a thousand miles apart from the other Grant at Belmont, Butler at New Orleans, Farragut at the mouths of the river, and the glorious old sailor Foote at the point where the sparkling waters of the Ohio mingle with the turbid stream. Gen Banks continued the work which was begun by Gen Butler, but at which the latter accomplished so little The only thing which even Gen Banks did on the river, but that was a highly important work was the capture of Port Hudson It was only however the corollary and consequent of Grant's work, for it was when Vicksburg had fallen and part of Grant's army was on its way to aid Banks that Port Hudson was surrendered by its commanding officer Foote who achieved the first naval successes went to the grave before the great labor which he had begun was crowned with victory but Farragut, the compeer of Foote in genius and heroism, and who began so splendidly the work at the Delta has had the felicity of living to see the work consummated and the entire river in our hands Next to Grant in labors and successes comes Farragut! Nay not next to Grant but with a glory equally great he stands by his side While America has land and naval heroes like Grant and Farragut her power and her renown can never fade away Great as the sea kings of olden time is the one grand as the heroes of Homeric song is the other Than he, Nelson never wore a prouder crest, than him, Washington never wore greener bays.

It is pleasant to be able to speak in commendation of some of our national leaders and representatives Upon the dead sea of imbecility it is cheering to find a purple sail with a hero at the helm Let us not restrain our joy or stint our praise For it is needful that we and the nation should not lose our faith in all men Nothing so discourages me and all others as the perpetual discovery that we have fools to guide us—that our leaders have skulls without brains, heads without eyes, ribs with no souls beneath them, and arms that are peeled of their vital tissue. When we have found a vigorous head a clear eye and a stout hand, let us not be afraid to give their owner greeting for they are of Heaven."

More Indian Depredations—Train Captured —Mr Jones expressman and Mr W Lord a merchant of Canyon City furnish the following to the Mountaineer of the 24th

On Monday last about 2 o'clock p m, Nelson's train when about 2½ miles this side of the South Fork was fired upon and 12 of the animals stampeded with all the cargo. At the time of the attack Nelson and two other men were with the train At the first fire one of the men was shot under the arm the ball ranging downwards This caused him to drop from his horse Nelson and the remaining man went to his assistance, and after remounting him, made the best fight they could The Indians fired 18 shots in all The fire was returned, and one of the Indians was seen to be borne off, apparently wounded There were six Indians in the attacking party armed with rifles and revolvers Nelson and his companions succeeded, after making a running fight, in reaching the South Fork where the wounded man was examined and his injuries found to be slight In the course of the fight one of the horses was shot dead and the Indians succeeded in running off 12 of the animals and their packs The next morning Nelson made up a party of six persons and started in pursuit of the Indians They tracked them but a short distance up the creek when they found four of the horses and twelve packs ■ Some of the sacks containing flour were cut open and strewed around The cargo as well as the train was the property of Mr Nelson His loss foots up in the neighborhood of $1 600 Mr N will be recollected as having carried the express between Dalles and Canyon City, and is regarded as a deserving young man

SPECIAL DISPATCHES TO THE DAILY OREGONIAN

LATER FROM THE EAST.

Dates to August 19th.

New York, August 19th—10 a m — The Herald's special says, last week one of our scouts crossed the river at the U S Ford and took dinner with some rebels at the Chancellorsville battle ground A large gang of negroes were engaged in getting out timber for the defenses Reports are in circulation among the rebels that the U S and Banks Fords were to be bridged so as to enable Lee to make a rapid attack on Dumfries and Fairfax, thereby cutting off our communication with Washington, and forcing us to attack him Whether such a movement is still in contemplation by the enemy is not certain but it is generally believed by military critics that Lee will avail himself of the opportunity now afforded by the decimated condition of our army to make a desperate effort for the destruction of the Army of the Potomac It is not at all improbable that the rebels will attack us and we may have another struggle at Manassas or Bull Run

Affairs at Centerville remain quiet Gen King who has been seeking energetically for Mosely has at length succeeded in driving him beyond the Blue Ridge The notorious guerrilla chief is now in the Shenandoah Valley where he has been joined by White's gang Our cavalry are close on them and unless unusual good fortune attends them they cannot evade us

The Tribune's Washington special says, it is understood that important dispatches showing the complicity of the Governor of New York, and others, with the rioters, have been received by the authorities there It is thought that Gov Seymour will not persist in following the mistaken course into which he was beguiled by the Woods and their party

Flag Ship Dinsmore off Charleston August 16 —Since Monday events here have been rather monotonous We have been exchanging shot and shell night and day with little damage to either party The enemy's object was to retard Gen Gilmore's siege works, but they were all perfected several days ago The intention to open on the 13th was abandoned on account of some difficulty as to the quality of army ammunition, and owing to the serious indisposition of General Gilmore He is, however, much better, and the opening of the heavy siege works will commence to-morrow morning at daylight The shore batteries, in getting the range of the guns yesterday and day before, knocked three holes in the walls of Sumter A general impression prevails that the rebels are evacuating Sumter and will blow it up as soon as the assault commences Out of nearly 50 guns on the parapets ten days ago but six remain, and most of those in the casemates had previously disappeared The rebels have erected earth works a mile long on James Island, though but few guns have been mounted, and it is supposed that the guns from Fort Sumter are destined for these works Our picket boats around Sumter report great activity every night with steamers, schooners, &c The weather is fine with a very calm sea, most favorable for operations The sun is hot, but we have cool sea breezes and occasional thunder storms Everything is now in readiness, on both sea and land, and all are looking forward to the work of to-morrow as certain of success.

Reinforcements continued to arrive daily, and there is quite a large army now on the Island On Wednesday night the rebels fired on our works with grape and canister, on information received of two sutlers who deserted to the enemy. We lost two killed and two wounded The monitors went up in the night and opened on Wagner The rebel guns were soon silenced. The indications are that the rebels will depend principally on their obstructions and interior lines of defense In the attack to-morrow the iron clads will engage Wagner and keep her silent, while the monitors and shore batteries engage Sumter, the wooden fleet and mortar schooners will engage Moultrie. It will be a grand affair The rebel works on James Island indicates an attempt to drive Gillmore off the Island, or so annoy him as to interfere with his siege of Sumter

Chicago, August 19 — A Washington special says Rosecrans' expedition to Washington, Tenn, is a complete success

New York, August 19.—The N Y Tattersall's was burned yesterday Several firemen were injured and 15 horses burned.

In view of the draft which commenced to-day Gov Seymour yesterday issued a proclamation counseling obedience to the laws. He says "While it would have been a wise and humane policy to have procured a judicial decision with regard to the constitutionality of the conscription act, yet failing to do this in no wise justifies any violent opposition to it An act of Congress until it is set aside must be obeyed " He warns the people that the only opposition that can be allowed is an appeal to the courts In event of riotous proceedings vigorous and effective measures to suppress them will be used

Messrs A L Scovill & Co Last Winter I was attacked with cramps in the stomach and bowels which lent me nearly double and the pains were so great that it prostrated me I tried your BAKER'S PAIN PANACEA in frequent doses which relieved me at once and I felt its influence to the very extremities of my limbs and have not been troubled with any similar attack since I have been travelling during the spring in the country and I came across many who had severe attacks of diarrhœa and I gave them a few doses of the PAIN PANACEA which cured them immediately I also recommended it to a man who had a severe headache and it gave instant relief by bathing thoroughly with it J M ADAMS

Appointment —His Excellency Governor Gibbs has appointed another Excellency, Capt John H Couch, of this city Port Warden of the Columbia River District, under the provisions of the act of the Legislature passed in 1860

Military —Two military companies are being formed in this city, and we hope both may succeed in finding a sufficient number of loyal citizens who are willing to shoulder a musket in defense of their country If two companies are raised in this city, they will have better prospects for permanency than if only one exist, as a spirit of generous rivalry will be engendered thereby, which will prove beneficial to both

Sidewalks —Like the sidewalks themselves this topic is almost worn out, but we feel it incumbent upon us to mention the disgraceful condition of the sidewalks in this city, just once more, before quitting the subject in disgust. Even along Front street, where nine tenths of the people travel, there are places where it is really dangerous to life and limb to step without looking, while along every plankway huge spikes stick up several inches above the wood work, catching at every few steps the dress of any lady who ventures abroad Such a condition as the sidewalks are at present in, is a disgrace to Portland and its property holders

Branch Mint Wanted —We hope that at an early day, proper steps will be taken for the establishment of a branch mint in Portland, as it is both expensive and inconvenient for miners and merchants to be compelled to send their gold dust or bars to San Francisco in order to procure coin in exchange No later than yesterday several prominent business men were rushing around town trying to procure coin until such time as they could get returns from the mint in San Francisco In justice to themselves, therefore the business men of this city should wake up to their interests in this matter, as every miner who takes his gold dust to San Francisco for the purpose of having it coined, expends at least one hundred dollars which would otherwise be expended in Portland

Shipment of Gold Dust —The steamer Sierra Nevada, which sailed at 5 o'clock yesterday afternoon for San Francisco, took out the following amounts of treasure

Wells, Fargo & Co	$90 000
L. Cohn & Co	3 000
Goldsmith Bros	10,500
Allen & Lewis	14 000
Oregon Steam Navigation Co	13 358
Ladd & Tilton	4 800
Marker Bros	7 000
Knapp, Burrell & Co	900
Other Shippers	28 000
Total	$176,558

In addition to the above, there was a large amount of gold dust in the hands of passengers

Arrival of Treasure —The steamer Julia brought down five hundred and twenty five pounds of gold dust last evening

Just in Time —The Julia met the Sierra Nevada about two miles below town yesterday, and having on board some twenty of ye honest miners who did not desire to stop in the land of "web feet" longer than was strictly necessary, the two vessels halted and they transferred themselves to the Nevada and went on their way rejoicing

This Evening, the great Drama of the "Marble Heart, or the Sculptor's Dream," will be performed at the Theater This is one of the most beautiful dramas ever written

APPOINTMENT.—His Excellency Governor Gibbs has appointed another Excellency, Capt. John H. Couch, of this city, Port Warden of the Columbia River District, under the provisions of the act of the Legislature passed in 1860.

MILITARY.—Two military companies are being formed in this city, and we hope both may succeed in finding a sufficient number of loyal citizens who are willing to shoulder a musket in defense of their country. If two companies are raised in this city, they will have better prospects for permanency than if only one exist, as a spirit of generous rivalry will be engendered thereby, which will prove beneficial to both.

AMALGAMATION AT THE SOUTH.—Mrs. Fanny Kemble, in her recently published Journal of a Residence on a Georgia Plantation, remarks:

I am rather surprised at the outbreak of violent disgust which Mr —— indulges in on the subject of amalgamation, as that formed no part of our discussion, and seems to me a curious subject for abstract argument. I should think the intermarrying between blacks and whites a matter to be as little insisted upon if repugnant, as preventedif agreeable to the majority of the two races. At the same time I cannot help being astonished at the furious and ungoverned execration which all reference to the possibility of a fusion of the races draws down upon those who suggest it, because nobody pretends to deny that, throughout the South, a large proportion of the population is the offspring of white men and colored women. In New Orleans a class of unhappy females exist whose mingled blood does not prevent their becoming remarkable for their beauty, and with whom no man, no gentleman, in that city shrinks from associating; and while the slaveowners of the Southern States insist vehemently upon the mental and physical inferiority of the blacks, they are benevolently doing their best, in one way at least, to raise and improve the degraded race, and the bastard population which forms so ominous an element in the social safety of their cities certainly exhibit in their forms and features the benefit they derive from their white progenitors. It is hard to conceive that some mental improvement does not accompany this physical change. Already the finer forms of the European races are cast in these dusky moulds; the outward configuration can hardly thus improve without corresponding progress in the inward capacities. The white man's blood and bones have begotten this bronze race, and bequeath to it, in some degree, qualities, tendencies, capabilities, such as are the inheritances of the highest order of human animals. Mr. , and many others, speak as if there were a natural repugnance in all whites to any alliance with the black race; and yet it is notorious that almost every Southern planter has a family, more or less numerous, of illegitimate colored children. Most certainly, few people would like to assert that such connections are formed because it is the interest of these planters to increase the number of their property, and that they add to their revenue by the close intimacy with creatures that they loathe in order to reckon among their wealth the children of their body. Surely that is a monstrous and unnatural position, and utterly unworthy of belief. That such connections exist commonly is a sufficient proof that they are not abhorrent to nature; but it seems, indeed, as if marriage (and not concubinage) was the horrible enormity which cannot be tolerated, and against which, moreover, it has been deemed expedient to enact laws. Now, it appears very evident that there is no law in the white man's nature which prevents him from making a colored woman the mother of his children, but there is a law on his statute books forbidding him to make her his wife; and if we are to admit the theory that the mixing of the races is a monstrosity, it seems almost as curious that laws should be enacted to prevent men marrying women toward whom they have an invincible natural repugnance, as that education should by law be prohibeted to creatures incapable of receiving it.

"SET HIM AGAIN."—A very worthy fisherman, by the name of Grizzle, was drowned some time since, and all search for his body proved unavailing. After it had been in the water some months, however, it was discovered floating on the surface, and taken to the shore; whereupon Mr. Smith was dispatched to convey the intelligence to the much afflicted widow.

"Well, Mrs. Grizzle, we have found Mr. Grizzle's body."

"You don't say so!"

"Yes, we have; the jury has set on it, and found it full of eels!"

"You don't say Mr. Grizzle's body is full of eels?"

"Yes, it is; and we want to know what you will have done with it?"

"How many eels do you think there is in him?"

"Why, about a bushel."

"Well, then, I think you had better send the eels up to the house and set him again!"

"Orpheus C. Kerr," as he chooses to call himself in print, has already departed for the land of Ophir. He fell in love with and married Adah Isaacs Menken, the actress, who also called herself Mrs. Heenan, a title which the pugilist of that name declined to admit that she wore with his authority. Adah is gay, dashing, handsome, and beautifully formed, and Orpheus was romantic, impulsive and fancied his wife a divinity in tights or gauze thingumbobs. They soon discovered that they had mentally erred in selecting each other. She could not endure domestic restraint. He could not endure her love of public admiration. She would have her way! He grew wretched. His fun forsook him. He could write well no more. First he determined to go into the army and get shot. Next, he resolved to go to California, with his wife, and get rich. She preferred the latter programme, and so ends the story.—St. Louis Democrat.

Daniel S. Dickenson lately said: The preservation of the Government is worth more than all that may be sacrificed to support it. Do we propose to stand by and see its sun go down before noonday, because of "Abolitionists?" The great Abolitionists are Jeff Davis & Co. Some great Abolitionists have had monuments erected to them, but the Abolitionists should unite to erect a monument as high as heaven to Jeff. Davis & Co., who have abolished slavery at one stroke. You might as well expect to have the deer and rabits and squirrels stay after the wood has been cut away as to expect slavery to remain after this rebellion.
